This course helps you to develop your knowledge of the legal system and how it operates. The course covers the roles of solicitors, barristers, judges, the courts and lay people. You will learn about the legal concepts and methods of reasoning and have an in-depth look at three major areas, including crime (murder, manslaughter and assault), contracts (formation of contract and consumer protection) and tort (civil wrongs including negligence, nuisance and occupiers' liability). At AS level you will have an introduction to law making and the legal system and explore the concept of liability. As you progress to A2 level you will study criminal law (offences against the person) or Contract Criminal law (offences against property) or Tort and Concepts of Law.

After this course: On successful completion of the course you could progress to university, perhaps after a gap year, or you could choose to enter employment.

You must be aged 16-18. Students need to have 5 GCSE passes (A*-C grades) at one sitting in relevant subjects including Maths and Grade A* - B in English.
